

Required Nurse Licensure Disclosure (LDR)

34 CFR 668.14(b)(32) requires all programs that prepare students for occupations requiring programmatic accreditation or State licensure to meet those requirements for all new program entrants (students) starting on July 1, 2024, for each State in which the student is located if they are not enrolled in face-to-face instruction or in a State in which a student attests, they intend to seek employment.

Applicants enrolling in any one of FVI School of Nursing and Technology's pre-licensure nursing programs must be a Florida resident prior to enrolling and must agree to remain a Florida resident while actively enrolled in a pre-licensure nursing program.

Applicants will be expected to meet the licensure requirements of Florida and seek initial licensure in their home state of Florida.

The Nurse Licensing Compact (NLC) allows registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, and vocational nurses to get a multistate license.

Since Florida is a member of the Nursing Licensing Compact (NLC), Florida licensed nurses residing in the state of Florida are permitted to work in one of the 43 Nurse License Compact (NLC) States in addition to Florida. One you are licensed in Florida; you may apply for a multi- state license.

As of December 2024, nine (9) states and the District of Columbia are not part of the Nurse Compact License agreement. To practice in any of these states below, you will need to independently seek licensure in that state:

- Alaska
- California
- District of Columbia (Pending NLC Legislation)
- Hawaii
- Illinois
- Michigan (Pending NLC Legislation)
- Minnesota
- Nevada
- New York
- Oregon

There are 3 states and the U.S. Virgin Islands under the following statuses:

- Connecticut (eNLC enacted, Awaiting Implementation)
- Massachusetts (eNLC enacted, Awaiting Implementation)
- Pennsylvania (Partial Implementation)
- Virgin Islands (eNLC enacted, awaiting implementation)

If you, as an applicant to the Nursing program plan on practicing in one of the above states, you must disclose this information prior to enrollment, so that the school can determine if the Nursing Program at FVI School of Nursing and Technology will meet the requirement of the non-participating state.
